Course Scope

STUDENT WARNING: This course syllabus is from a previous semester archive and serves only as a preparatory reference. Please use this syllabus as a reference only until the professor opens the classroom and you have access to the updated course syllabus. Please do NOT purchase any books or start any work based on this syllabus; this syllabus may NOT be the one that your individual instructor uses for a course that has not yet started. This course will examine the historical evolution of the United States from its colonial period to the end of the Reconstruction. It is important to understand that the events taking place in the United States did not occur in a vacuum. As such, a major focus of this course will entail placing American history in the larger context of western civilization. Hence, a constant emphasis is on the “big picture.” The intent is to give the student not only a firm grasp of American history but also a solid understanding of why these events were, and still are, important. The course will examine these developments chronologically (at least largely) with particular emphasis placed upon foreign and domestic political, economic and military policies, as well as the evolution of industry and society.

Course Objectives

After successfully completing this course, you will be able to

- Examine the historical development of the United States since the colonial period and identify the major figures in American history and their significance.
- Identify the major foreign policy goals of the various presidential Administrations. This is key in recognizing America’s relationships with other nations.
- List the internal and external forces that altered American foreign policy from independence to 1877.
- Recall the major economic cycles and the causes of economic change, along with the key points in the evolution of American industry and society, in addition to key the economic organizing principles of American history, such as the market and industrial revolutions.
- Develop your skills in analytical thinking and historical writing. Integrate all of the above people, places, or events into the “big picture” of American history.
- Discuss historical issues, respond to study questions, and reflect on historical themes as presented in the context of the period and their relevance today.

Evaluation Procedures

Describe how you will evaluate your students for each graded activity.

Reading Assignments: This course relies mainly on the assigned text, lecturettes, and supplemental readings. Links to these readings are located in the weekly lesson section of the course.

Forum Assignments: Throughout the course you will answer questions in the Forums, respond to the postings of you classmates, and answer follow-up questions that I will post in the Forum. Directions for the Forum assignments are located within the classroom and an in-depth explanation of the exact expectations are located in the “Forum Guidance and Requirements” document within the Week 1 Assignment lesson.

Written Assignments: During the course you will write two short papers, each at least three pages long. An in-depth explanation of the exact expectations are located in the “Written Assignment Guidance” document and assessment of these assignments is explained with the “Written Assignment Rubric” document within the Week 1 Assignment lesson.

Written Assignment Follow-On Questions: The grading of the two written assignments will include content related questions. During the course, two weeks after each of the written assignments is due, you will have the opportunity to post the answer to one of the questions that I ask while grading your paper and answer it. Special forums are in the class during Weeks Five and Eight for this purpose.

Exams: There is an open book final exam, non-proctored, that will be available for you to complete during Week Eight.

Writing Expectations: Within the class, are several documents that explain the expectation within the History program. These documents are the “Forum Guidance and Requirements”, “Written Assignment Guidance”, and “Written Assignment Rubric”.

Citation and Reference Style: Attention Please: Students will follow the University of Chicago Manual of Style as the sole citation and reference style used in written work submitted as part of coursework to the University. Assignments completed in a narrative essay or composition format must follow the citation style cited in the University of Chicago Manual of Style.

Late Assignments: Students are expected to submit classroom assignments by the posted due date and to complete the course according to the published class schedule. As adults, students, and working professionals, I understand you must manage competing demands on your time.

STUDENT WARNING: This course syllabus is from a previous semester archive and serves only as a preparatory reference. Please use this syllabus as a reference only until the professor opens the classroom and you have access to the updated course syllabus. Please do NOT purchase any books or start any work based on this syllabus; this syllabus may NOT be the one that your individual instructor uses for a course that has not yet started. If you need to verify course textbooks, please refer to the online course description through your student portal. This syllabus is proprietary material of APUS.

Should you need additional time to complete an assignment, please contact me before the due date so we can discuss the situation and determine an acceptable resolution. Routine submission of late assignments is unacceptable and may result in points deducted from your final course grade.

Netiquette: Online universities promote the advancement of knowledge through positive and constructive debate – both inside and outside the classroom. Forums on the Internet, however, can occasionally degenerate into needless insults and “flaming.” Such activity and the loss of good manners are not acceptable in a university setting – basic academic rules of good behavior and proper “Netiquette” must persist. Remember that you are in a place for the rewards and excitement of learning which does not include descent to personal attacks or student attempts to stifle the Forum of others.

- Technology Limitations: While you should feel free to explore the full-range of creative composition in your formal papers, keep e-mail layouts simple. The Sakai classroom may not fully support MIME or HTML encoded messages, which means that bold face, italics, underlining, and a variety of color-coding or other visual effects will not translate in your e-mail messages.
- Humor Note: Despite the best of intentions, jokes and especially satire can easily get lost or taken seriously. If you feel the need for humor, you may wish to add “emoticons” to help alert your readers: ;-), :), ☺

Online Library

The Online Library is available to enrolled students and faculty from inside the electronic campus. This is your starting point for access to online books, subscription periodicals, and Web resources that are designed to support your classes and generally not available through search engines on the open Web. In addition, the Online Library provides access to special learning resources, which the University has contracted to assist with your studies. Questions can be directed to librarian@apus.edu.

- Charles Town Library and Inter Library Loan: The University maintains a special library with a limited number of supporting volumes, collection of our professors’ publication, and services to search and borrow research books and articles from other libraries.
- Electronic Books: You can use the online library to uncover and download over 50,000 titles, which have been scanned and made available in electronic format.

STUDENT WARNING: This course syllabus is from a previous semester archive and serves only as a preparatory reference. Please use this syllabus as a reference only until the professor opens the classroom and you have access to the updated course syllabus. Turnitin.com

Faculty may require assignments be submitted to Turnitin.com. Turnitin.com will analyze a paper and report instances of potential plagiarism for the student to edit before submitting it for a grade. In some cases professors may require students to use Turnitin.com. Typically the course professor will establish a Turnitin.com access code for his/her classes. If the code has not been established, those who wish to use Turnitin.com may ask their professor to establish the code. Professors will use Turnitin.com to routinely check for potential plagiarism in forum postings, written assignments, and the final exam.
